Background

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

What is an inclusive environment?

- An inclusive environment is one where all employees feel supported and welcomed - a workplace including opportunities for growth, feedback loops for employee input, and a psychologically safe workplace culture.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

What is disability inclusion?

- Disability inclusion means employees do not leave their disabled identities at the door. Instead, they are comfortable bringing their whole selves to work and using their diverse experiences and perspectives to develop products and services that better resonate with clients and customers.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Why foster a disability-inclusive culture?

1. Increase the hiring and retention of people with disabilities to benefit from a wider pool of talent, skills, and creative business solutions.
2. Achieve compliance with federal regulations.
3. Create and sustain diverse and inclusive workplaces where people want to self-identify as having a disability.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

How is success measured?

- Ensure a strategy that includes collecting, setting, and iterating on metrics for success.
 - ✓ Implement an employee survey to gather feedback on the “inclusive” experience.
 - ✓ Designate a group of individuals who will be held accountable for implementation, evaluation, and ongoing monitoring.
 - ✓ Use the Voluntary Self-Identification of Disability Form for recordkeeping and data analysis.

Understanding Self-Identification

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Key Distinction: Disability Disclosure

- What It Is: An open discussion between an employee with a disability and their manager or co-workers where the disclosure is to request an accommodation or inform.
- Examples
 - An employee discloses they have cancer to their manager because they will need an accommodation of a flexible schedule to attend treatments and deal with fatigue.
 - An employee brings a service animal to work and voluntarily discloses it to her co-workers so they can discuss how to interact with the animal.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Key Distinction: Self-Identification

- What It Is:
 - A response to an employer's act of inviting applicants and employees to identify as having a disability voluntarily for data collection.
 - Occurs when an individual shares information about one's disability status through a formal self-identification program.
 - Data are kept confidential and used for aggregated statistical purposes to understand the composition of an organization's workforce.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Key Elements: Self-Identification (1)

- Employers must create an environment in which employees and applicants are comfortable self-identifying to measure success.
- People with disabilities report that they are more likely to self-identify if they see their employer making efforts to create an inclusive environment.

OFFICE OF DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT POLICY
UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Key Elements: Self-Identification (2)

- Federal agencies and private employers are allowed to invite applicants and employees to identify themselves as having disabilities if the information is treated confidentially and used only for affirmative action.
- As part of Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act, federal contractors/subcontractors must invite applicants/employees to self-identify as a person with a disability. Applicants are invited to do so at both the pre-and post-offer stages, and employees are to do so every five years.
