Disability Related Access for Inmates and Visitors Guide

We know that...

- ✓ More than 750,000 people with disabilities are incarcerated across the nation.
- ✓ These inmates can, if the facility does not fully comply with the ADA and implement ADA best practices, serve harder time with less access to positive programming (such as early release) and vital services.
- ✓ Due to discriminatory practices, inmates with disabilities can end up living in a “prison within a prison.”

Additionally, we know that...

- ✓ Approx. 85% of incarcerated youth have a disability (often undiagnosed).
- ✓ They are referred to the juvenile justice system earlier than youth without disabilities.
- ✓ They are referred for more serious crimes and experience shorter survival times before they recidivate.

Finally, we know that...

- ✓ Facility visitors with disabilities often face barriers including a lack of accessible parking, inaccessible entrances and visitation areas, lack of effective communication or a modification of policy that would make the facility accessible to the visitor.
- ✓ Correctional facilities do not necessarily inform visitors of their ADA rights and do not always have a ADA grievance process for visitors with disabilities.

The Corrections Guide

- In response, the Southwest ADA Center's Disability Related Access for Inmates and Visitors Guide* is designed to be utilized by corrections to educate and train facility staff regarding their ADA responsibilities concerning inmates and visitors with disabilities.

Material/contents of the Guide developed through the Southwest ADA Center, funded by a grant (90DP0092-01-00) from the National Institute on Disability, Independent Living, and Rehabilitation Research.*
